

GRADUATE MEMBER

Graduate membership

A graduate member has successfully completed either an ICES accredited degree, an acceptable degree course, such as a BSc, postgraduate diploma or MSc, or an NVQ/SVQ 4 or 5.

A graduate of any discipline who has been on an ICES company approved training scheme for at least one year will be accepted as a graduate member.

Key benefits

- The award of the designatory letters GMInstCES.
- The opportunity to become an active member of the ICES Network and participate in its activities.
- Reference to membership of a specialist professional institution on your CV.
- The opportunity to apply for corporate membership when eligible.
- ICES competencies to assist with professional development.
- A monthly e-newsletter listing of news and technical events.
- Ten copies per year of the Institution journal, Civil Engineering Surveyor.
- Access to ICES regional events.

